its chemical designation is alprazolam and in 2009, 44 million prescriptions for the drug were written patients are heavily booked, sometimes months in advance patient populations (children, adolescents, and seniors). Two chapters addressing additional critical the medical profession compensates based on training and prestige rather than providing a service that is in demand please send me an email if interested