

Cookie policy

Visiting our website and using our services implies that you understand and accept the way in which we process personal data in accordance with our confidentiality policy. We respect your privacy and the right to check your personal data. Our guiding principles are simple: we will be open with the data that we collect and explain why. Please take a moment to read these principles. It is important!

Cookies are small quantities of information stored in files in the browser of your computer. Cookies are accessible and recorded by the websites that you consult and by the companies that place their advertisements on websites, so that they can recognise the browser. The websites can only access the cookies that they have stored on your computer.

By using our website, you agree to the use of the cookies installed by our website.

Our website uses cookies for the following purposes:

- Use of the website: to help us recognise your browser as that of a previous visitor and to record the preferences that you set at the time of your previous visit to the website. For example, we may record your connection information so that you do not have to connect each time you visit the website;
- Social networks: to check whether you are connected to third services (Facebook, Twitter, Google+, etc.);
- Targeting: to enable us to target browsers who visit our website at a later date or in real time (e-mailing, database enrichment);
- Audience measurement: to monitor the website visitor statistics (that is the use made of the website by users), to improve the services provided by the website and to help us to measure and study the efficacy of our online interactive content, its features, advertisements and other messages.

For more details, please consult the list of cookies used by our website.

Your cookie and web tag choices:

You have the choice of configuring your browser to accept all cookies, reject all cookies, inform you when a cookie has been installed, its period of validity and its content, and to enable you to refuse to allow the cookie to be registered on your terminal, and to delete your cookies periodically.

You can set up your internet browser to deactivate the cookies. Note, however, that if you deactivate the cookies, your user name and your password will no longer be saved on any website. For more information about methods enabling you to delete and monitor the cookies stored on your computer, consult the following website: allaboutcookies.org.
